“From the Ashes: Surviving the Station Nightclub Fire”
Author: Gina Russo

On February 20, 2003, nearly 500 people filled a small rock club in West Warwick, RI. During a performance, a pyrotechnic display ignited a fire that quickly engulfed the interior. The incident became the fourth deadliest fire in U.S. history, killing 100 and injuring hundreds more.

Gina Russo was one of the survivors. She woke from a long coma to learn of the devastation that claimed the life of her fiancée. She would endure months of physical therapy and carry psychological scars that would test her spirit. This is the story, told in her own words, of how one woman found strength and hope rise From the Ashes.

Today, Gina has re-married and is back to work at her old job.. Her long road to recovery and “wholeness” becomes the main focus of her story. Gina gives her caregivers and her family all the credit for her survival, but her own strength and courage cannot be discounted. Gina is truly an inspiration for anyone who has gone through such a profound degree of loss and suffering.

Comfort Zone Camps

Sue Oppici & Chris Greim

CZC is a bereavement camp that transforms the lives of children who have experienced the death of a parent, sibling or primary caregiver. CZC has recently joined with the National Fallen

Firefighters Foundation to introduce the Hal Bruno Camp for Children of Fallen Firefighters. This camp is for children ages 7-17 who have lost a parent or step-parent in the line of duty. During this session you will learn about how CZC transform the lives of those involved, both survivors and volunteers as well as learning how to become trained as a Volunteer to the Comfort Zone Camps program.

8:30 am—5 pm

Pastoral Crisis Intervention

Instructor: Anthony Surozenski,
Deacon

Pastoral Crisis Intervention may be thought of as the combination of faith-based resources with traditional techniques of crisis intervention. Pastoral crisis intervention represents a powerful addition to traditional community and organizational psychological support resources. The purpose of this two-day course is to assist the participants in learning how pastoral interventions and traditional psychological crisis interventions may be effectively integrated.

Chaplains, pastoral counselors, mental health professionals, ministers and anyone interested in the use of faith-based resources in healing should find this course of interest.

TEAM: Team Evolution & Management

Instructor: Gil Bernard, MSP retired

Crisis intervention and critical incident stress management strategies and interventions can only be effectively delivered through a well-organized and orchestrated crisis response team. Team development and management skills are critical to the effective functioning of a crisis response team. This session will explore: leadership and management strategies; team development activities; team evolution considerations; preventative maintenance; learning from the past; and how to help teams remain healthy.

This course is designed for anyone in a team leadership position or who aspires to contribute to the organization or continued development of a crisis support, CISM, or peer support team. The program is essential to the development and maintenance of these programs.
